

Don't waste any more time with incoming mail! Open it the cleanest, most efficient way. Manually, with Access B100. Automatically, with Access B300.

How many letters do you and your staff open every day?

Twenty, forty, fifty, a hundred – more? Whatever your daily average, investing in a Frama letter-opener – manual or automatic – can easily pay for itself over the year. Not only does it mean that letter contents can be sorted and circulated for action faster. The seconds saved on each envelope save significant time and energy your staff could spend a lot more profitably doing other things. Add it all up. It makes good business sense.

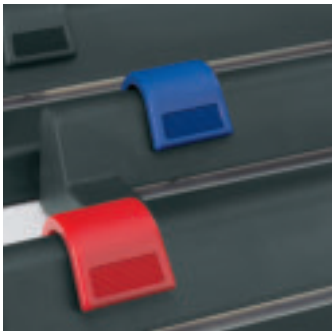

Frama Access B300: Good automatic sense.

The B300 cuts out time and effort in every way. It switches on and off automatically, cleanly and precisely opens stacked letters at up to 250 per minute. You'll like that. Even better, the B300 accepts all sizes of envelope – in thicknesses up to 6.5 mm – so it cuts out much tedious fanning and sorting, too. You'll love that!

Frama Access B100: The compact response.

It looks good. Fits the smaller office. Works smart. Just lay the envelope on the cutting board. Pull the lever across to the other side – it's open. Quick, comfortable, flexible – the B100 handles all envelope sizes in thicknesses of up to 6 mm. A big help with smaller postal volumes at a sensible price.

Looks neat,
works smart.
Which colour
would you like your B100
to be?

Beyond pure
function: Frama
letter-openers
do not shave
envelopes
open. They slit
them, finely
and precisely.
Benefits: the envelopes' contents remain
completely

undisturbed,
stapled documents stay
stapled and there are no
messy bits
of paper to sweep up afterwards.

Cutting-edge
speed and care:
Place a whole
pile of letters
on the B300
feed-tray. Your post emerges in the out-tray
almost like

lightning,
looking absolutely unchanged.
The only difference is, it's been opened.
Immaculately.
